

Brockley Jack Writers' Workshop

Playwrights are invited to join the 2010 Autumn season of new writing workshops based at the Brockley Jack Studio Theatre. The workshops are led by Literary Manager and playwright David Bottomley, (Writers Group Director of the London Playwrights Collective).

The Brockley Jack Writers' Workshop is a new, dynamic hub for emerging contemporary theatre writing in South London. The group will meet at the Brockley Jack Studio Theatre on Monday evenings from September 2010 (7.30-9.30pm).

We are seeking writers with commitment to attend all sessions to support the development of scripts and individual members. Together we shall be expanding skills and understanding of writing within a friendly environment. The sessions will explore all elements of playwriting using writing exercises, workshopping, collective writing, discussions and group feedback.

The season is divided into eight sessions and gives you the opportunity to submit a script from the workshop for a rehearsed reading at the Brockley Jack Studio Theatre. Selected scripts will be given a platform performance during the Write Now Festival in February 2011.
